

OWNERSHIP

Naming who authorised it.

Agent authority bound to verified people and organisations, with approvals recorded where required.

WHAT WE KEEP HEARING

Firms want every agent action to be auditable, explainable to regulators and traceable to an accountable person. Several are working towards a named senior owner for agentic outcomes in each business area, in line with existing senior management accountability.

Autonomous action makes ownership less clear. A defensible control must show what it detects, when people intervene and who owns the decision, without slowing every action down with approvals.

WHAT NUGGETS DOES

Nuggets binds an agent's delegated authority to verified people and organisations, making it provable rather than assumed. The authority record identifies who granted the delegation, its scope, the policy applied and any required approval.

Authority is explicit and revocable, not implied by a service account or shared credential. Delegation can be granted, scoped and withdrawn without changing the agent.

The ownership record is produced through enforcement, rather than maintained separately alongside it.

PILOT SCOPE

Pick one agent action that needs business, risk and compliance approval to go live. Name the accountable owner, bind the delegation, and show the authority holding across every action it takes.

OUTCOME

Clearer ownership of agent actions.